DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 01/28/2011 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Applicants allege Atwood fails to teach or suggest estimating the temperature of the contained object, based on a "pre-examined correlation" between an object-container temperature difference when a predetermined time passes from the beginning of temperature raising and the ambient temperature when the predetermined time passes. However, Atwood recites the examination of the correlation between the thermal response of the sample block and sample liquid with respect to the presence of a layer of "ambient air" between the sample tube and the wall of the sample well, and its effect on the thermal time constant of the system (C28/L47-57). As such, it is the position of the examiner that the "thermal time constant of the system", as disclosed by Atwood, anticipates the limitation recited in the instant claims of a pre-examined correlation between an object-container temperature difference when a predetermined time passes from the beginning of temperature raising and the ambient temperature when the predetermined time passes.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4, and 6-14 (claim 5 is canceled) are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Atwood et al. (USP 5,475,610).

Regarding claims 1-4 and 6-14, Atwood discloses all of the claimed limitations with a thermal cyclor for automatic performance of PCR with multi-zone heating (Fig. 1, C25/L44-C26/L16) where the heat applied is controlled by measuring the temperature of the sample block at its heated cover (C9/L49-52) and ambient air (C25/L8); estimating the temperature of the sample liquid based on the thermal time constant of the system (C28, see: Equation 6) and compensating for any additional mass with an experimentally determined constant of proportionality (C27/L22-53); determining the power needed to cause the block temperature to stay or move to the desired temperature (C24-25, see: Equations 3-5); and heating the sample for up to 20 seconds (C60/L33). (Additionally see: C98-104, Block Temperature Control Program for specific heating cycle protocols).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
